

GOES FOR HASKELL; BRINGS BAILEY IN

(Continued from First Page.)

by reading a letter from Mr. Archbold, of the Standard Oil, in which Mr. Archbold asked Mr. Foraker's aid in opposition to Senator Bailey, introduced by Senator Jones, of Arkansas. I also read a letter in which a matter of $50,000 sent to Mr. Foraker by Mr. Archbold was mentioned. Mr. Foraker explained that he merely borrowed this money, and that he then returned it to the Standard Oil. Possibly this is true, and, even admitting it, the situation now stands that Mr. Foraker earned some money from the Standard Oil and borrowed other money from the Standard Oil while he was a United States Senator representing the people of Ohio. He probably received something in salaries from the people, but he does not seem to have thought that worth considering. He did not ever write anything to anybody. He even tries to give the impression that he cannot write at all, and that he does not read very well. The only trouble with Mr. Bailey is that his memory is poor. His effrontery is magnificent. His mendacity is monumental. His servility is extraordinary, but his memory is a little weak. Mr. Bailey wrote the letter which I quoted, and he wrote others.

Wanted to See Bailey.
Mr. Hearst then read a letter from Joseph C. Bailey to "Mr. A., who effect that "Mr. O'Brien, who Hearst declared was Senator Bailey, was "prepared to make a great fight against the vicious principle that the government can own any books or reveal any trade secrets because some one thinks I am engaged in making too much money," adding: "You say you think ought to have a consultation with him some day." He also stated, "If you want to see him I think I could arrange for him to call when in New York."

Mr. Hearst then read the following letter:
"226 Broadway, New York.
"Dear Mr. Bailey: We are anxious to have a talk here at an early day as possible with Senator Bailey, of Texas, and I write to ask if you will do us the favor to communicate with him and find when he can be here. Greatly appreciating your courtesy, I am,
"Sincerely,
"JOHN D. ARCHBOLD."

Haskell Issues Denial.
CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—In the face of the assertion of Mr. Hearst at St. Louis that an affidavit signed by E. S. Monnett, former attorney-general of Ohio, identified Governor C. N. Haskell, of Oklahoma, as having been a party to Standard Oil alleged negotiations, Governor Haskell today declared the statements were absolutely false.

The assertion that I had anything to do with the Standard Oil Company is absolutely false," said Governor Haskell. "On the day the affidavits are said to have been signed, Sept. 12, 1908, Mr. Monnett was in Oklahoma City and on that day made a speech in which he congratulated me from all connection with the Standard Oil matter. It is unbelievable that any man would make such a speech and on the same day sign an affidavit stating the contrary thing. There is no truth in the charges."

PERSONALS AND BRIEFS

The Brook Avenue Kindergarten, under the management of Miss Berkley, will open at 717 Brook Avenue on Tuesday.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs.

If you have bitter bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "biliousness," "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Groceries at Cost

Large and select stock of Groceries of the Durham Grocery Company, 411, Etc., East Marshall Street, being absolutely sold at cost. You can afford to put your storeroom in good condition and indulge in some luxuries at these prices. Come and see for yourself.

R. R. FLORANCE,
Receiver in Bankruptcy.

Hardware & Household Goods At Cost and Less Than Cost

40 per cent off. Splendid bargains to be had. Fine stock of Harris-Elliott Hardware Company, 409 East Broad Street, being sold out to wind up business. Not too early to buy your Christmas goods at a chance like this. You won't get another such soon.

R. R. FLORANCE,
Trustee.

FOR YOUNG MEN

to whom style is the first and last requisite of dress, our store is their mecca—first, last and every time.

Here are the best garments, fine fabrics, good tailoring and talent can make, at prices only a little above half the merchant tailors'.

Men are too busy to read descriptions of the new fashions so we will not attempt to give the details, but if you will drop in you will find our salesmen glad to show the goods, whether you're to buy or to look.

O. H. Berry & Co.
MEN & BOYS' OUTFITTERS

Principals in the Foraker Standard Oil Scandal

SENATOR J. B. FORAKER.
Who received checks from the Standard Oil Company.

FORAKER NOT TO TAKE PART IN CLUB RALLY

(Continued from First Page.)

Last night in St. Louis by William R. Hearst, was received by Senator Foraker, and on the failure of the attempt to buy that paper, the draft was returned and the incident forgotten, according to a statement given to the Associated Press by the Senator here today. The Senator declares in his statement that no one at any time ever paid him a cent, or even suggested any such payment, in consideration of any thing he might do as a public man.

FRANK S. MONNETT.
Who charges Foraker and Standard Oil with his defeat.

Archbold Sustains Foraker.
NEW YORK, September 19.—John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil Company, said today, when a statement of Senator Foraker about the $50,000 draft was called to his attention, "That is exactly so; it is the truth."
"I had forgotten about the incident," said Mr. Archbold, "when it was recalled by the publication of the story. As I recall it now, Senator Foraker thought he could consummate the deal for the purchase of the Ohio State Journal and I sent him the draft for $50,000 as a temporary loan until he could finance the undertaking. The negotiations fell through, and the Senator returned the $50,000 draft intact. That is the whole truth in the matter, and really all there is to it."

CHARGES DEFEAT TO FORAKER

Former Attorney-General of Ohio Makes Sensational Allegations.
NEW YORK, September 19.—A Columbus, O., special quotes a statement from Frank S. Monnett, Attorney-General of Ohio from 1898 to 1900, which following the disclosures of William R. Hearst with reference to Senator Foraker's connection with the Standard Oil Company, must add to the Senator's embarrassment. The ex-Attorney-General is quoted as saying:
"In January, 1899, I stopped at the Arlington Hotel in Washington the day before I appeared in the United States Supreme Court in suits against the National Bank of Chicago. I found a card in my box after being there a short time from Senator Foraker, asking me to call at his home on Sixteenth Street. I called him up by

PEPPER IN BERLIN, AT WORK ON TARIFF

Special Agent of Department of Commerce Looking After Pottery and Porcelain Interests.

O'BRIEN MAY BE QUARANTINED

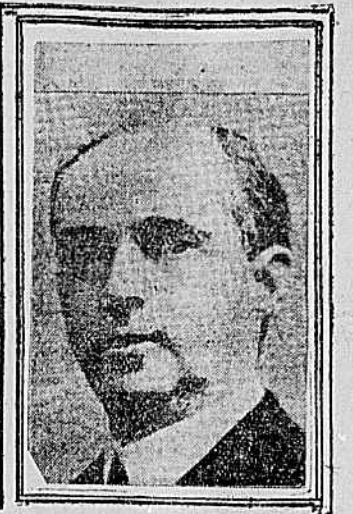

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
BERLIN, September 19.—Charles M. Pepper, special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has arrived here for a two-months' stay in connection with the projected revision of the tariff. Mr. Pepper is looking after the pottery and porcelain interests.

Professor Peack, the leading authority on geography in Berlin University, whose specialty is deep sea science, will go to America in October as exchange professor at Columbia University. Felix Adler, who returned here from Switzerland to take up his duties in a similar capacity at the University of Berlin.

Mr. O'Brien, the American ambassador to Japan, is held up here on his return to Tokyo, owing to the difficulty of procuring sleeping car accommodations to Moscow. There is a present prospect before him of being quarantined on the way, owing to the prevalence of cholera in Russia. Mr. O'Brien is particularly anxious to reach Tokyo before October 17th, the date on which the American squadron is expected to arrive.

There are only eight American delegates taking an active part in the conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union. These include Congressmen Lamar, Rothermel, Padgett and Bartholdt. Mr. Padgett will remain after the adjournment of the congress to help the monetary commission. "He says he has never been in a country where there are so many kinds of banking business as in Germany."

Professor Nicholas Murray Butler, who will sail for the United States on Tuesday next, has been greatly feted by both German and American society. On Wednesday Professor Butler gave a luncheon to a number of distinguished Berlin literati, including Professor Von Halle, Professor Von Forster, the astronomer, and Professor Puchstein, the archeologist and art critic.

J. D. ARCHBOLD,
Standard Oil's representative, who had correspondence with Foraker.

telephone, and made the engagement to call that evening. When I called at his home, and after a social exchange with members of the family, I was taken into his library, and he produced a certain confidential case file in the Standard Oil matter. The case of the Standard Oil of Ohio against the Standard Oil of Ohio, the State of Ohio against the Standard Oil of Ohio, the State of Ohio against the Standard Oil of Ohio, and as he laid them down he told me that he was an attorney for the company.

"I at first discussed the impropriety and danger of his representing these trusts, criminal and civil violators of his own State laws, as long as he, as well as myself, should be interested in the welfare of the people of Ohio. He told me that he never allowed his law practice to interfere with politics or his politics with his law practice, and added that he was a judge of the ethics of our profession. He then took up the cause of action against these companies and reminded me of the great power, financially and politically, of the Standard Oil crowd."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

END CONVICT LEASE SYSTEM

Georgia Legislature Finally Adopts Law Abolishing System.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ATLANTA, GA., September 19.—The convict lease system, which has been productive of so much graft and crime, will end in Georgia on March 31, 1909. The General Assembly, which has been in extraordinary session for weeks considering the convict question, today passed the bill killing the lease system.

Common Sense And A Tablet

Do Away With Dyspepsia, Stomach Trouble and Make Meals a Pleasure.

When your stomach goes on a strike and you cannot get any nourishment held all over your body, then it is that you should sit up and take notice. It is clearly and only a question of common sense—is the thing called dyspepsia. Take away, by abuse, over-eating, excesses and high living, the things which the stomach needs, and you have dyspepsia and indigestion; then other maladies follow these—this is common sense.

The stomach is willing enough, but you won't let it do its work. You take away the materials which are so necessary for it to use.

Give back the materials, and dyspepsia and indigestion flee and the whole machinery of man begins slowly to move and do its work.

What the stomach needs is nerve force, fluids for its digestive glands, nourishment and power. All these necessities it takes from the blood. If dyspepsia gives nothing to the blood, the blood gives nothing to the stomach. This is common sense also—pure, simple and unalloyed.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are common sense pressed by high power into essence. These tablets are powerful digesting food, stop gas-making, prevent decay of food, enrich the gastric juices, are absorbed by the blood and thus give it strength to furnish a better fluid for digesting the next meal. Every physician knows what comprises these tablets, every druggist has the same knowledge also. They are not mere common sense digesters, which do the work for the stomach quickly and well. Every drug store carries them, 50c per package. Send us your name and address, and we will send you a trial package by mail. Address P. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

If You Need a Piano THREE POINTS Should Be Considered When You Purchase.

First: Is the Piano strictly high-grade, of a lasting tone-quality, and made by a reliable factory?

Answer---From

Start

T

I to

E

F

Finish

The use of best materials, best construction by skilled workmen, profiting by the experience the STIEFF FACTORY has had in its sixty-eight years of continued manufacture under the same management, places the STIEFF PIANO at the head of High-Grade Instruments. Its sweet tone does not change, as does the so-called "good as" variety, so often sold by dealers to unsuspecting purchasers because there is more profit in the sale.

Second: How can I obtain the BEST PIANO for the least money, value being considered?

Answer---BUY

Straight

T

I from

E the

F

Factory

ALL STIEFF PIANOS ARE SOLD TO THE CUSTOMER BY THE MANUFACTURERS, thus guaranteeing against excessive profits often obtained when an instrument passes through several ownerships before reaching the customer.

Third: How am I to know what I select will prove all claimed for it?

Answer---You Are

Safe

T

I from

E

F

Fraud

If you buy a STIEFF. There are more STIEFF PIANOS in use in Virginia and North Carolina than any other three makes of high-grade Pianos. Some of the STIEFFS in use have been in the same homes for over half a century, and to all STIEFF purchasers we gladly refer.

The STIEFF is sold on terms or for cash and you are invited to inspect the new styles on exhibit in our warerooms.

CHAS. M. STIEFF

205 East Broad St.

Richmond, Virginia

L. B. SLAUGHTER, Manager.

ed me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm's length, and not as political allies. I received at the same time, while in Washington, I think possibly the next day, a telegram from C. E. Squires at Cleveland, in which he said:

"Make no agreement with any one in Washington about important business matter until I can see you."

"It was after this that I brought the suit against Squires and the other men, and began taking depositions in the case, when I was ordered by the courts to stop any further proceedings."

"I was defeated for renomination by Senator Foraker and his friends, and only received eight-seven votes in the election out of over 400. I could not bring the cases to trial before my term was ended, and the first thing that occurred after John M. Shanks was elected was the dismissal of all the cases against the Standard and other oil companies, which I had been pushing so hard."

"After talking a short time, he asked me to have the proceedings delayed in order to accommodate him. I firmly declined to concede any time whatever, and told him so. He recalled the great power of the Oil Trust. After that interview we dealt at arm